My Home Doctor LLC Launches in South FloridaPatients Can Now Benefit from the Convenience of Superior Healthcare Services in the Comfort of Their Own Home, Office or Hotel Room

MIAMI--(BUSINESS WIRE)--My Home Doctor LLC, a group of prominent physicians that provide personal and preventive medical care in the comfort of a home, office or hotel room 24 hours a day, seven days a week, today announced the launch of its services in South Florida. With more than 30 years combined experience in the industry, My Home Doctor's leadership team includes: Dr. Andrea Maggioni, former Chief of Pediatric Inpatient Services at Maimonides Medical Center in Brooklyn, NY and the founder of the Hospitalist Program at Miami Children's Hospital; Mark Price, a senior executive with over 15 years of experience in the global healthcare industry; and Jose Varona, a sales management executive with over 10 years of proven business development expertise.

"My Home Doctor was created to give both adults and families with children access to convenient, top quality and personalized healthcare. Our mission is to offer medical services focused primarily on quality time and attention, comprehensive examinations and immediate response," states Mark Price, CEO and co-founder of My Home Doctor. "At a time when doctors are overwhelmed with excessive patient loads and ERs are at over capacity, My Home Doctor is a convenient alternative — patients can receive expert, non-rushed treatment in the comfort of their home, office or hotel room."

In addition to providing same-day treatment, My Home Doctor physicians call patients one day after their consultation to follow-up. The medical team can also be reached by phone up to 48 hours after the patient has been treated. If within 48 hours of the visit the patient is still not feeling well and a follow up visit is required, My Home Doctor will return to the patient's home, office or hotel for a follow up consultation at no additional charge. If necessary, the physician can also make personal arrangements at a hospital, or even accompany a patient to a hospital.

"When my three month old got ill, I called My Home Doctor and in less than one hour they were at my house. The doctor waited patiently until my baby woke up and not only treated my baby, but also took the time to talk to me about nutrition and preventive care. Their response was quick, the physician was extremely professional and what it would have cost me in time and effort, had I gone to the ER or waited for a doctor's appointment, would have been much more than what I was charged. I have since then recommended them to all of my friends," said Eva Arango, a mom and My Home Doctor customer.

My Home Doctor visits start at US$300, a cost that is partially reimbursed by select insurance companies or applied towards a deductible. In addition to professional healthcare services, My Home Doctor provides patients with skilled customer service: the customer service representative simply collects some information and within minutes the patient then speaks directly to the physician prior to the visit. Once on site, the physicians come prepared to diagnose and treat the illness just like in an adult or pediatric physician's office. The My Home Doctor physician can also provide initial medication free of charge (if he/she has the correct medication on them) or can arrange for immediate prescription delivery. With the patient's permission, My Home Doctor physicians will also send a copy of the diagnosis and treatment plan to the patient's primary care physician to ensure continuity of care.

My Home Doctor is part of the growing trend in consumer-driven healthcare (CDHC) which is leading to new models of medical services. These CDHC services focus on two primary characteristics: timely access and greater convenience, and alternative reimbursement channels.
